Supported by :

- Chinese Institution of Soil Mechanics and Geotechnical Engineering-China Civil Engineering Society
- Hong Kong University of Science and Technology
- Zhejiang University

INTRODUCTION

Following the last two successful GeGe conferences held in Hong Kong (HKSAR) and Zhejiang, in 2015 and 2017, respectively. We are pleased to invite you to attend the 3rd International conference on Geo-Energy & Geo-Environment Conference in November 2019.

This conference will cover both Geo-energy and Geo-environment areas that are highly relevant and essential to maintaining the sustainability of the society. Worldwide academics, engineers, scientists are most welcome to join, to contribute and share the latest developments and information.

SUBMISSION OF ABSTRACTS

Two-page extended abstracts will be included in the GeGe2019 Conference Proceedings. GeGe2019 Conference provides opportunities for researchers to present papers within the themes set out on the right. Authors will be notified later whether their extended abstract is selected for an oral presentation, and for submission to a special issue of a SCI journal. A template of an abstract is available in the conference website: www.gege2019.com

Abstract submission deadline :

30th August 2019

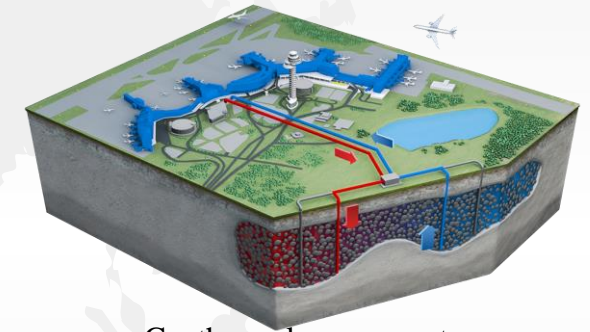

Early bird registration deadline:

30th August 2019

CONFERENCE THEMES

Geo-Energy

- Energy geo-structures such as piles, walls and tunnels
- Carbon Dioxide geo-storages and sequestration
- Radioactive waste disposal
- Energy extraction application such as conventional and unconventional energy, and geothermal energy

Geothermal energy systems

Geo-Environment

- Reused and recycled materials for geotechnical works
- Bio-geotechnology such as the use of vegetation and bacteria
- Landfills engineering
- Tailings dam engineering
- Heavy metal contaminated soil/water

Brazil's deadly dam collapse
